

Global Mindset Audit

|  | Self-rating(0-5) | Study☑ | Work☑ | Social☑ | Examples |
|--|----------------------|------------|-----------|-------------|----------|
| Works collaboratively across cultures                                  |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Adapts communication skills to suit different audiences                |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Can negotiate and influence international clients                      |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Respects and understands other people's perspectives                   |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Demonstrates drive and resilience                                      |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Shows high level of self-awareness and reflection                      |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Demonstrates ability to develop new skills and behaviours              |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Has the ability to embrace new perspectives and challenge thinking     |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Able to form global professional networks                              |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Able to learn in different cultures and environments                   |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Multi-lingual approach and ability                                     |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Has a good knowledge/understanding of foreign economies and industries |                      |            |           |             |          |
| Total (out of 60)  |                      |            |           |             |          |

Red – Social Capital, Blue – Psychological Capital, Green – Intellectual Capital

0-20 - You have some understanding of what it takes to become a global graduate but need to do much more work to evidence this to employers.

20-40 – Improving. Now you just need to start really looking at the sections, and seeing what you can do next.

40-50 – Good work so far. There is still some more you can do to really show employers what you have to offer

50-60 – Excellent work! Not only have you got the knowledge and skills required to be a global graduate but it looks as though you have evidence to demonstrate this to future employers.

Action Plan

Use the table below to start thinking about how you can build and improve on your global mindset skills

| Area to work on: | What can you do to improve this? | When will you do this by? |
|------------------|----------------------------------|---------------------------|
|                  |                                  |                           |
|                  |                                  |                           |
|                  |                                  |                           |
|                  |                                  |                           |

